400 JOBS IN STORE AS MORRISONS SWEEP INTO TOWN

by Hayley Robinson
hrobinson@thekmgroup.co.uk

MORRISONS is coming to Sittingbourne – and bringing with it up to 400 jobs.

The supermarket giant's new store will be a key feature of the £30million redevelopment plans for the former Sittingbourne Paper Mill site in Milton Road.

London-based developers Essential Land, which owns the site, revealed its new retail partner on Tuesday.

It is anticipated that the proposed 72,000 sq ft supermarket will create between 350 and 400 new local job opportunities.

Scott Hammond, partner at Essential Land, said: "We held discussions with a number of retailers but it was always our preference to improve choice for residents by attracting a top quality operator not currently represented in the town.

"We will be submitting a planning application for the Mill and Wharf sites, including new homes, leisure and community facilities and now the new Morrisons."

He hopes Morrisons' plans will spark further investment to revitalise the town.
