Spirit of Sittingbourne Consortium appointed for £110m town centre redevelopment

The Spirit of Sittingbourne Consortium has been appointed as development partner for the £110m Sittingbourne town centre redevelopment.

The consortium includes developer Cathedral Group, property consultants Essential Land and fund managers Altyon.

The group was selected by Swale Borough Council to redevelop the town centre in Kent over the next five years, with the proposed scheme including a new station square, a cultural quarter with an 8-screen multiplex cinema and flexible performance venue, and a new civic quarter with a library, cafes and health centre.

Later phases of the development will include residential and large format retail developments at other locations in the town centre.

The consortium beat Spennhill, Tesco's regeneration arm, and St James's Investments to secure the project.
